

Sam Perry

Role: Junior Sister, Respiratory Ward

Sam has been a nurse for two and a half years and has been part of the Respiratory ward team since she was a newly qualified nurse.

“Working on Respiratory ward is great, we get to learn some really specialist skills within respiratory nursing. We see patients of all ages, from 18 to 101, all with very different conditions or illnesses.

“Often our patients do not just have a respiratory illness, we also treat oncology patients as well as those with cardiac or other general medical illnesses too. Days are fast paced and varied, and we always have plenty of opportunities to learn and gain advanced nursing skills especially as we have a High Dependency Unit.

“The team on the ward is excellent; everyone is really enthusiastic and works together well. They’re a really nice group of people and have become almost like family since I moved to the area.”
